Saled Australia's aluminium extrusions have been developed in collaboration with the experienced and outstanding Australian aluminium company, Capral, utilizing local die-making expertise. In a commitment to sustainability, the aluminium extrusions are crafted from low-carbon aluminium, forming part of a solution to protect our collective future. The supporting bar box arrangement has been modified to accept a more robust support section, allowing for the rapid assembly of main bars, covers, and sail tracks. This modification contributes to the fabrication of the world's most popular flex system.
